Once there was a rabbit who was scared of dying

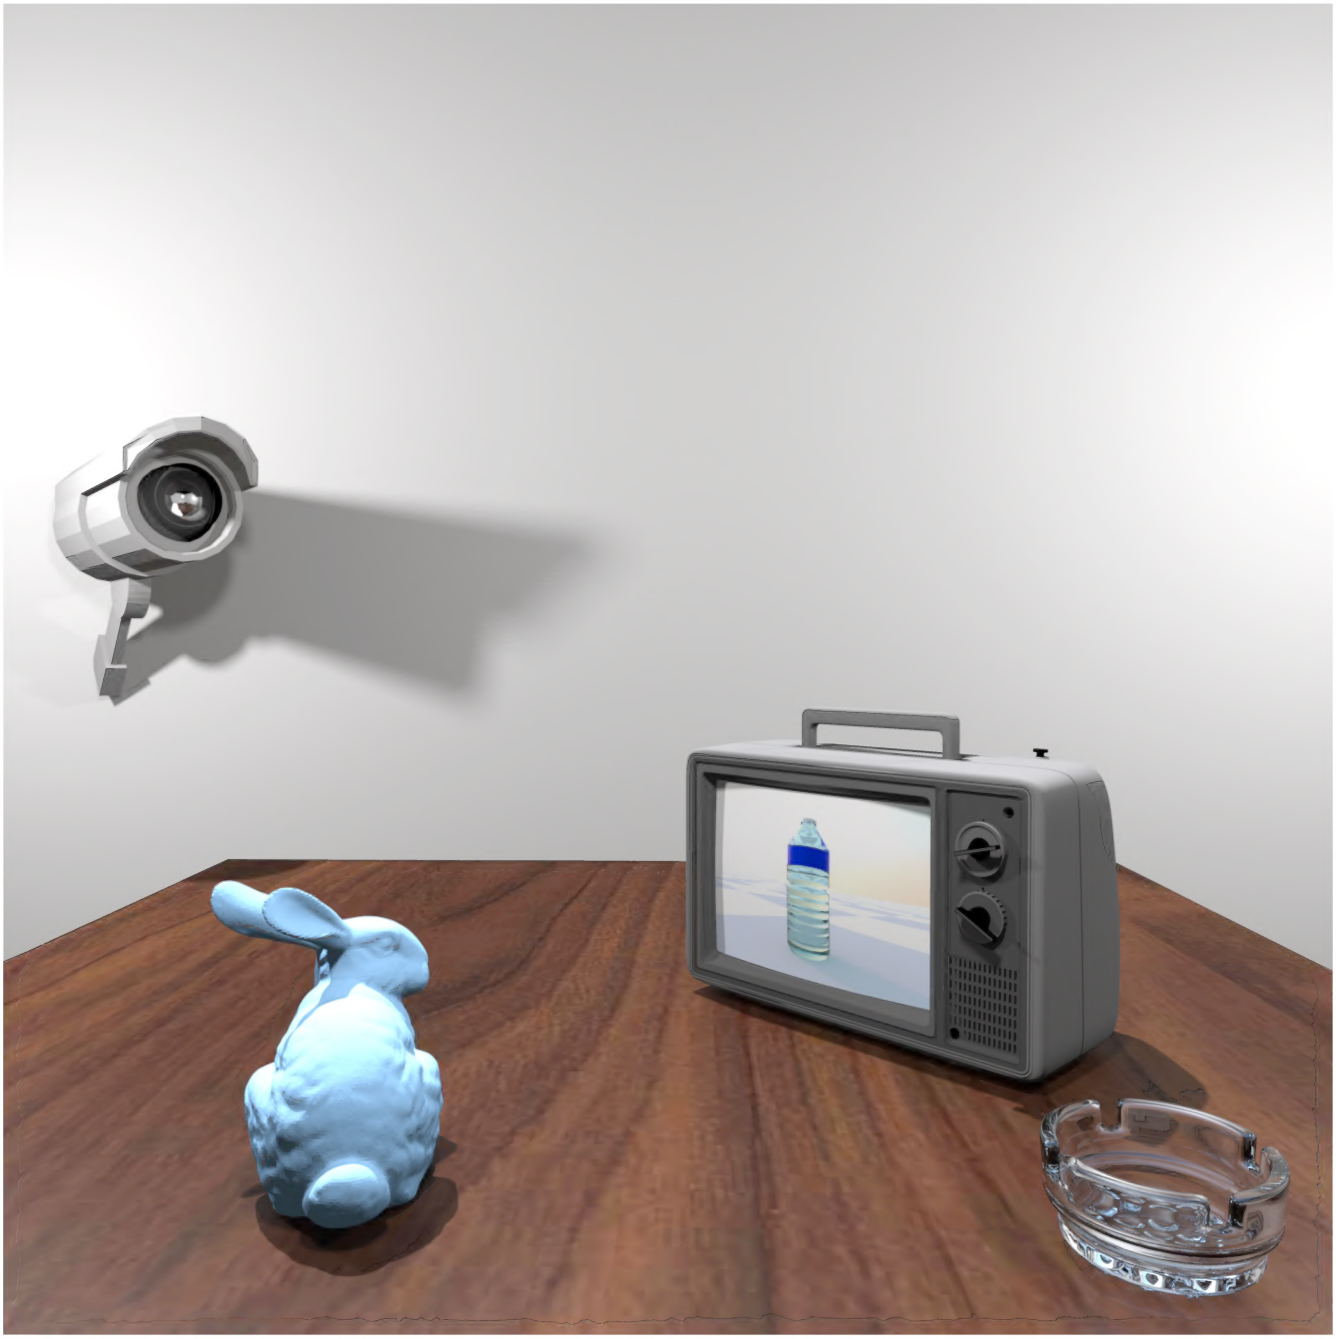
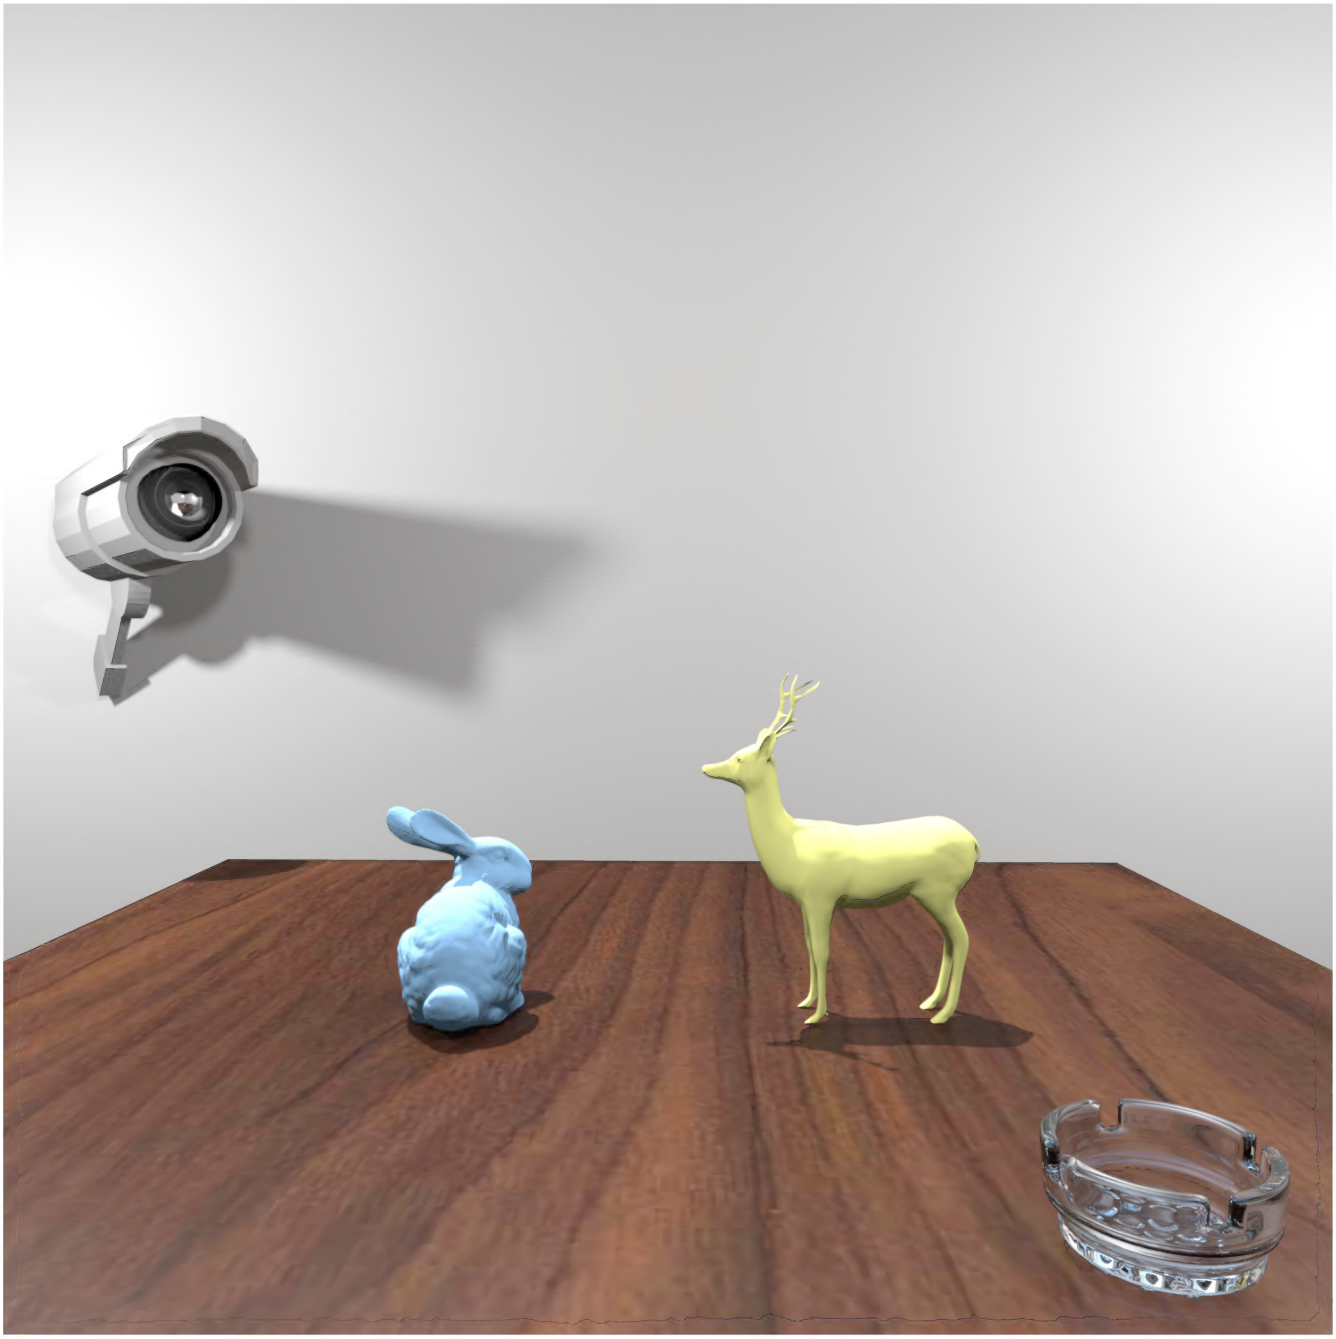
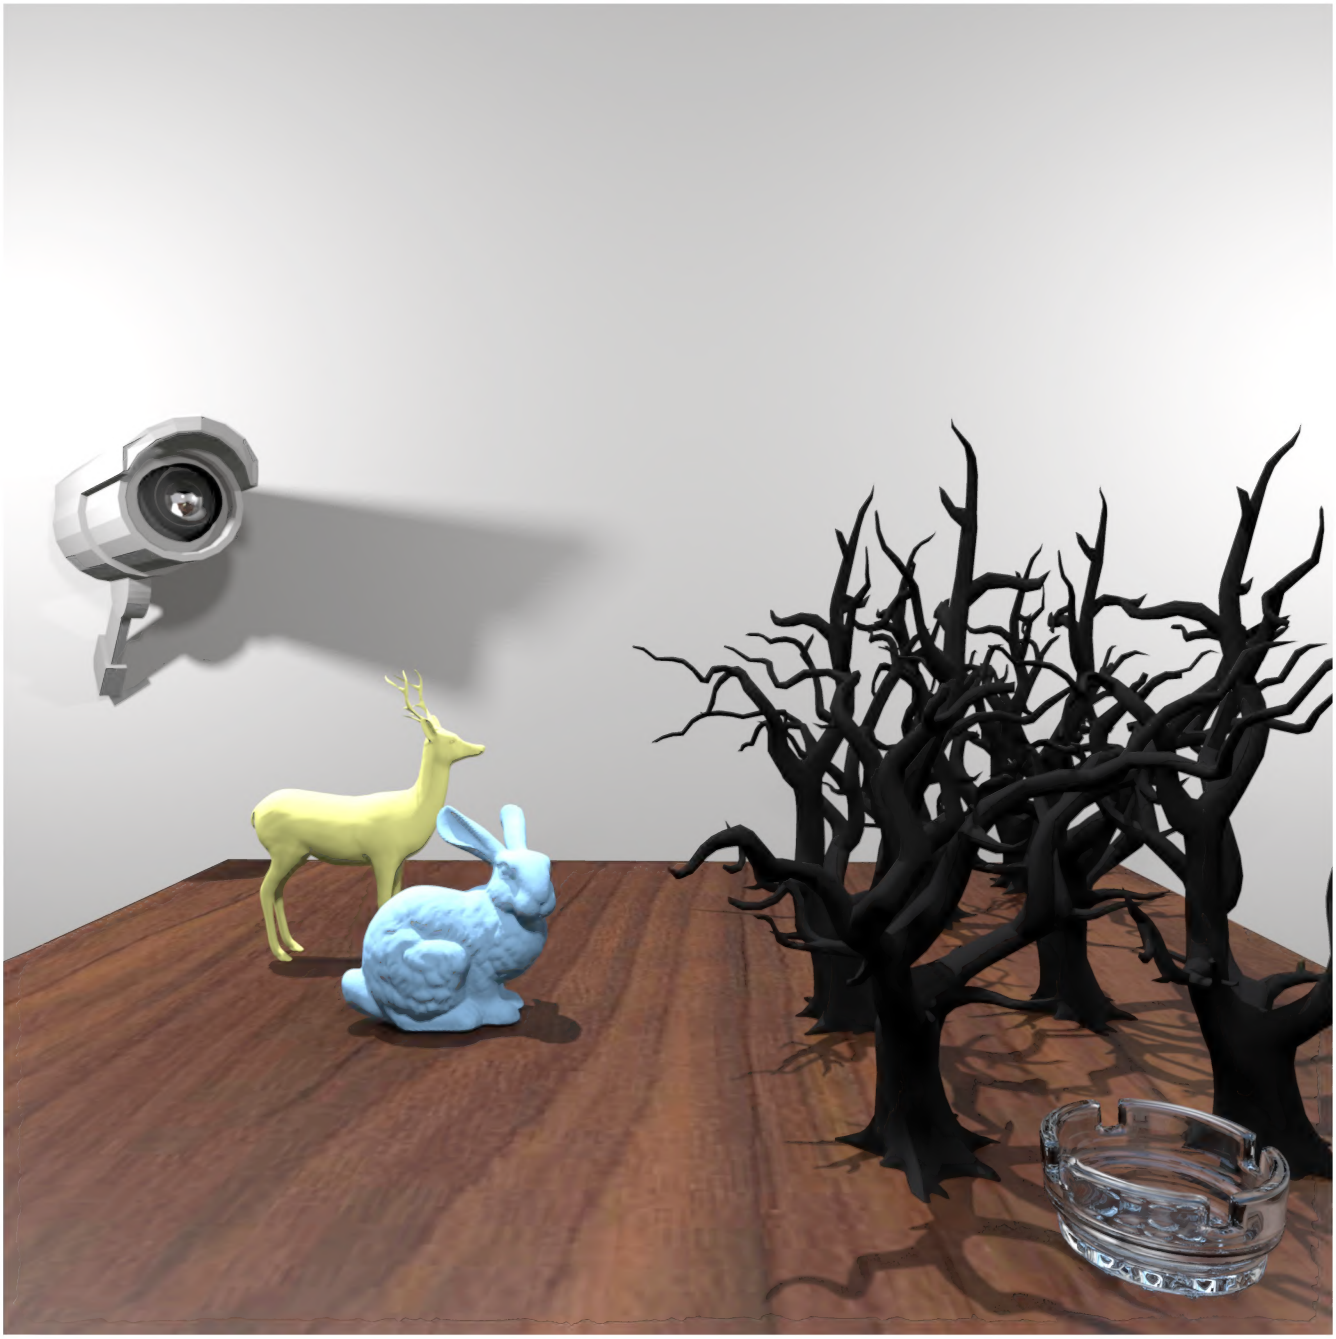
He learned about a special drink of life but he was too scared to go through the dark forest to get it



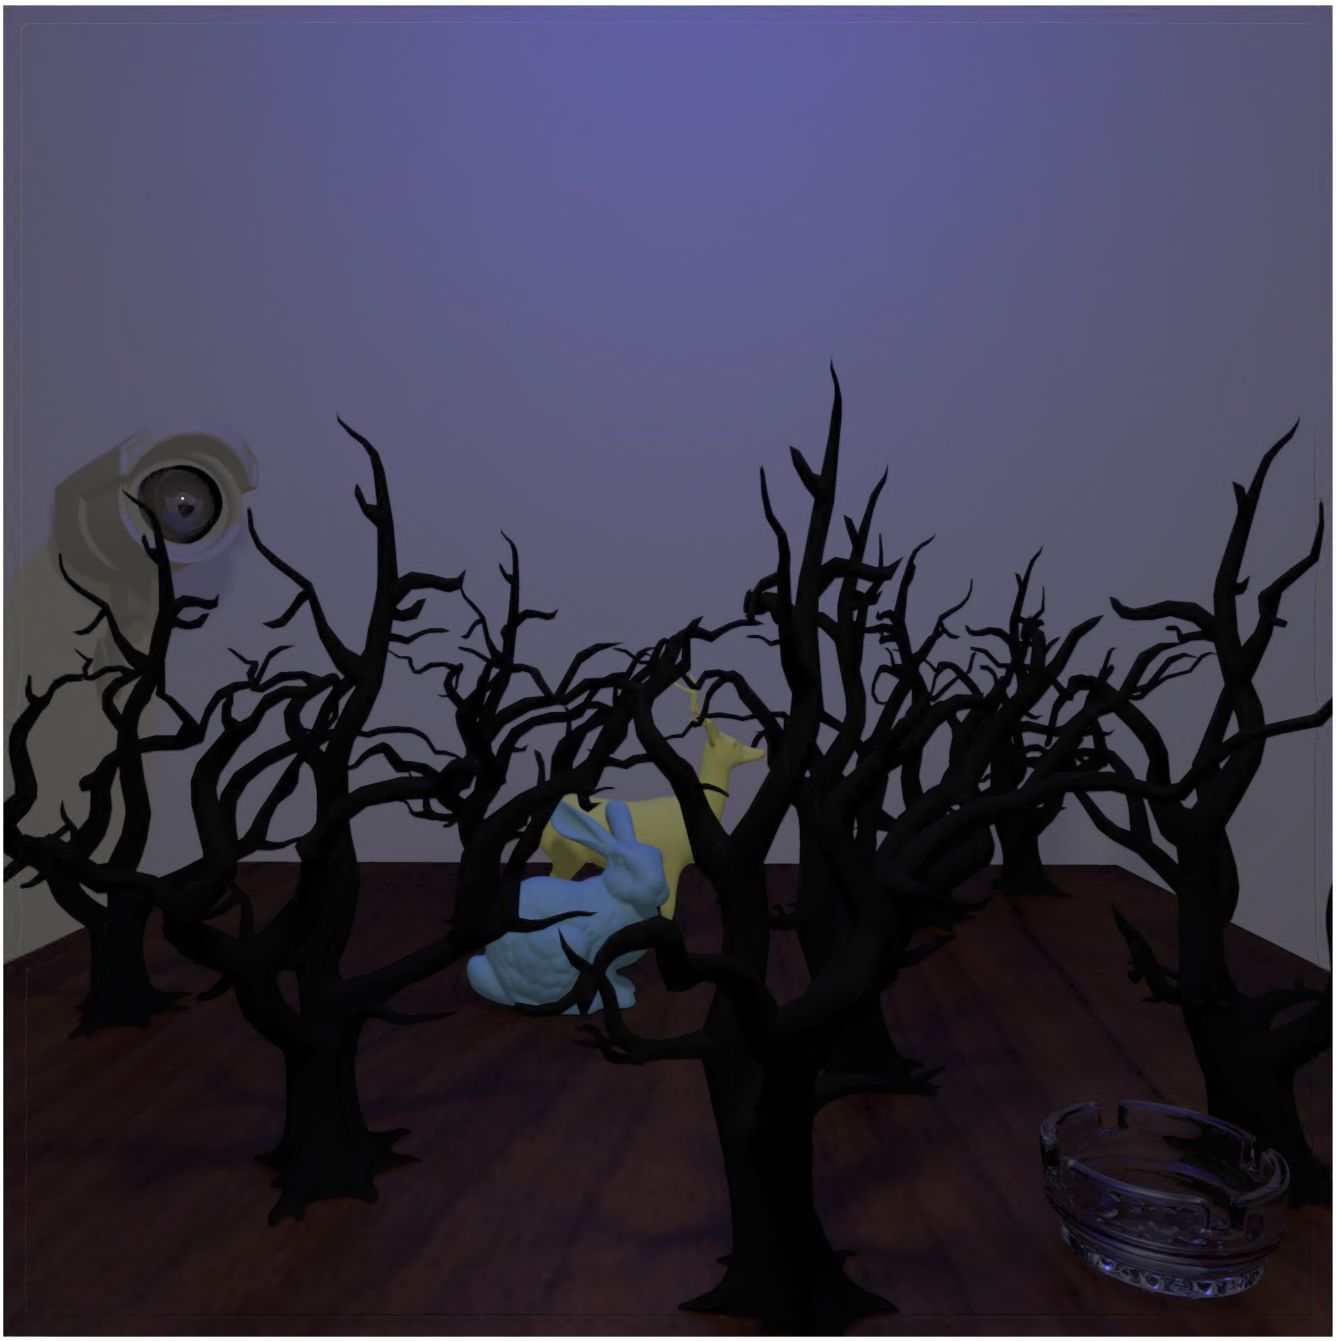
"I will guide you through the forest," said the deer



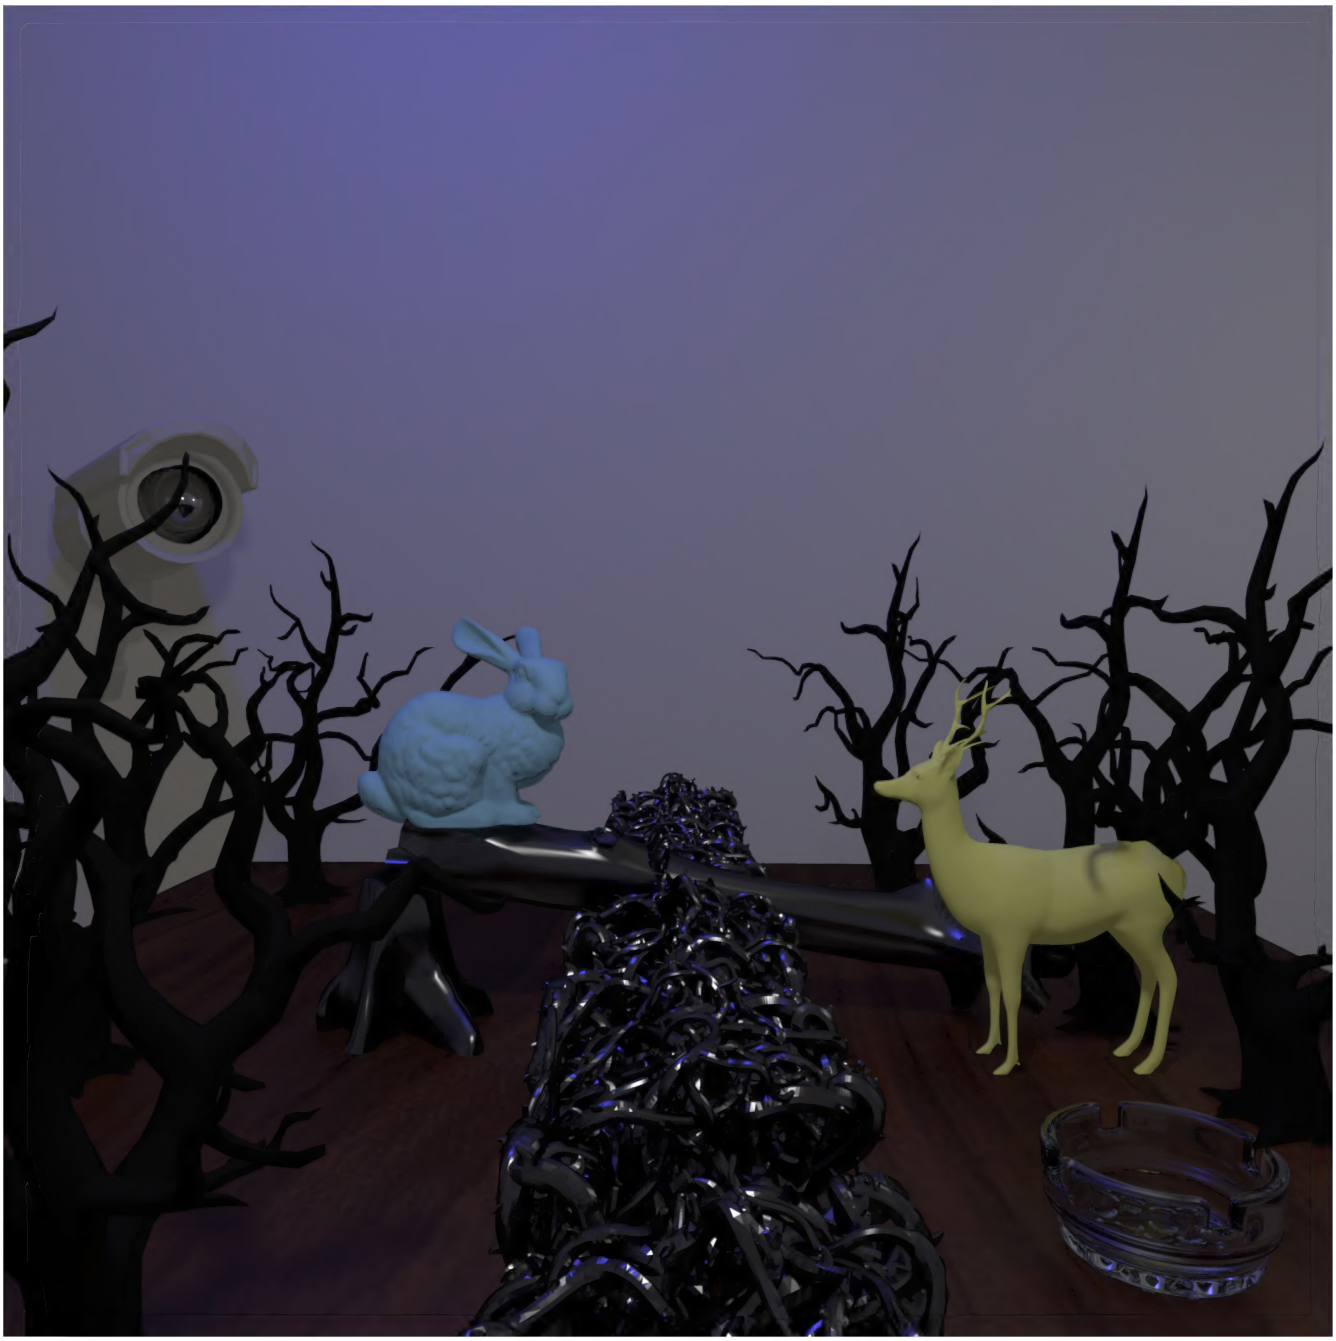
They crossed into the forest



It was very dark



They had to climb over a thorny wall of brambles



In a bright clearing, the rabbit met an incarnation of perfect love

But she was guarded by a vicious wolf

The rabbit beat the wolf but he was mortally wounded

Luckily, his friends returned with the special drink of life

The rabbit was alive again

They flew out of the woods on the back of a giant bird

Home again, the rabbit was no longer afraid to die
